Ok that sounds good. Thanks for pointing that out. I'll do my best to fit both the sentiment that there was a compromise and that we have yet to see the FEIS and be assured of the resolution.

Thanks, Phil.

Chris, Scott:

On re-reading the Monument Butte slide, it could be that we slightly overstate the benefits of the mitigation strat given that we don't yet have a published FEIS. The words "resolve" and "address" are the places I am referring to. Perhaps it would be worth mentioning in your presentation that we didn't get everything we might have liked to get in "resolving" the ozone concern. We do agree that the proposed mitigation strategy provides reasonable assurance that the project will not contribute to the ozone issue (assuming it remains unchanged in the FEIS and ROD). Further, we have increased confidence that pending regulations and actions stemming from a potential non-attainment designation will strengthen that reasonable assurance.

One additional point, the sub-bullet on that page under point number 3 states: "After significant negotiations with Newfield, an agreed upon approach was created and the Final EIS (FEIS) is expected to publish soon"

It might be worth mentioning that the final negotiation and agreement was between BLM and Newfield

Thanks for considering,

Phil

Hi All,

Please note which slides you will be presenting tomorrow:

- Why the Uinta Basin is important to EPA Region 8 (Monica, 1-3)
- Current ozone design values and regulatory monitors (Richard, 4-8)
- Uncertainty in oil and gas emissions (Jody, 9)
- Tribal interests (Jody, 10)

- State and federal permitting programs (Dec, 11-12)
- Significant new source issues, e.g. Deseret (Dec, 13-14)
- Proposed FIP for existing sources (Claudia, 15-18)
- NEPA activities (Chris R., 19-22)
- Potential Uinta Basin aerial IR survey (Chris D. 23-25)
- Winter ozone field studies (Chris, 26)
- Western Air Quality Study-Intermountain West Data Warehouse (Scott, 27-28)

Thank you!

Jody
